

THE HORSE

Sentence-Building Exercise 2

Materials:

photograph of horse, students' circle-in-circle charts and branch organizers, lined paper, tape, completed circle-in-circle chart on chart paper (from Lesson 65 sentence-building exercise), two pieces of blank chart paper, dry-erase marker, watercolor marker

Before the Lesson:

1. At <http://fhautism.com/arc.html>, find the circle-in-circle chart, branch organizer, and lined paper. Print one of each for each student, plus a few extras.
2. On the blank chart paper, draw the lined paper and branch organizer.
3. On the board, hang the completed circle-in-circle chart on chart paper (from Lesson 65 sentence-building exercise) and blank branch organizer.
4. Write the date on the board.

Teaching the Lesson

1. Gather the children in a circle. Hold up the photograph of the horse. Ask: "What animal is this?" If no one can identify the animal, ask an aide to answer, or answer the question yourself.
2. Ask: "Who can tell me something about the horse?" If no one answers, ask: "What can the horse do?" If no one answers, prompt the students to look at the circle-in-circle chart on the board. If no one answers, ask an aide to answer, or answer the question yourself. Possible answers include gallop, run, jump. Students may come up with different answers. Ask the question several times, and allow different children to answer.
3. Ask: "What does the horse have? If no one answers, prompt the students to look at the circle-in-circle chart on the board. If no one answers, ask an aide to answer, or answer the question yourself. Possible answers include four legs, a mane, a tail. Ask the question several times, and allow different children to answer.

- 4. Ask: “What does the horse like? If no one answers, prompt the students to look at the circle-in-circle chart on the board. If no one answers, ask an aide to answer, or answer the question yourself. Possible answers include apples, hay, carrots. Ask the question several times, and allow different children to answer.
- 5. Praise students and pass out reinforcers.
- 6. The children return to their desks. Pass out pencils and blank graphic organizers. On each desk, tape a circle-in-circle chart on the left and the branch organizer on the right.
- 7. Say: “Write your name on your paper.” Make sure everyone writes his or her name. Then say: “Write the date. It is on the board.” Make sure everyone writes the date.
- 8. Say: “Copy the words from the circle-in-circle chart on the board onto your circle-in-circle chart.”
- 9. Say: “Now we will do the branch organizer.” On the branch organizer on the board, write “Horse” on the top line and “Can,” “Has,” and “Likes” on the three spaces under the top line. Say: “Copy the words onto your charts.”
- 10. Ask: “What can the horse do?” Point to the words on the circle-in-circle chart. Encourage students to look at their own chart. If no one answers, ask an aide to answer, or answer the question yourself. Ask the question several times, and allow different children to answer.

If someone uses a nonsensical word, e.g., “hay,” say the whole sentence. Say: “The horse can hay? Does that make sense? Let’s look back in the circle and find something the horse can do.”

- 11. Write students’ answers on the branch organizer on the board. For each answer, say: “Write (the answer) under the word ‘Can’ on your branch organizer.”
- 12. For each word that students write, say the whole sentence, e.g., “The horse can gallop.” As you say each word of the sentence, point to the corresponding word on the branch chart.

LEVEL 7: THE HORSE

- 13. Ask: “What does the horse have?” Point to the words on the circle-in-circle chart. If no one answers, ask an aide to answer, or answer the question yourself. Ask the question several times, and allow different children to answer.
- If someone uses a nonsensical word, e.g., “gallop,” say the whole sentence. Say: “The horse has gallop? Does that make sense? Let’s look back in the circle and find something the horse has.”
- 14. Write students’ answers on the branch chart. For each answer, say: “Write (the answer) under the word ‘Has’ on your branch organizer.”
- 15. For each word that students write, say the whole sentence, e.g., “The horse has a long tail.” As you say each word of the sentence, point to the corresponding word on the branch chart.
- 16. Ask: “What does the horse like?” Point to the words on the circle-in-circle chart. If no one answers, ask an aide to answer, or answer the question yourself. Ask the question several times, and allow different children to answer.
- If someone uses nonsensical words, e.g., “a long tail,” say the whole sentence. Say: “The horse likes a long tail? Does that make sense? Let’s look back in the circle and find something the horse likes.”
- 17. Write students’ answers on the branch organizer on the board. For each answer, say: “Write (the answer) under the word ‘Likes’ on your branch organizer.”
- 18. For each word that students write, say the whole sentence, e.g., “The horse likes hay.” As you say each word of the sentence, point to the corresponding word on the branch chart.
- 19. Praise students, pass out reinforcers, and take a short break.
- 20. Draw a large version of the lined paper on your chart paper, using the watercolor marker. Tape the chart paper to the board. Pass out the lined paper. Tape one to each desk, next to the branch organizer.
- 21. Say: “Today we are going to try making a longer sentence. We are going to use two words from the ‘Can’ column of the branch organizer. Let me show you how.” Point to the words on the branch chart on the board as you slowly say them, forming the sentence. (Example sentence: The horse can gallop and jump.)

AUTISM & READING COMPREHENSION

Lead students to make different sentences than they did in the first sentence-building exercise. Use only one compound phrase per exercise.

- 22. Write the sentence on your “lined paper” on the board.
- 23. Say: “Copy the sentence on the first line of your paper.”
- 24. Say: Let’s make a sentence from the second column of the branch organizer, using the word ‘Has.’” (Example sentence: The horse has a long tail.) Point to the words on the branch chart on the board as you slowly say them, forming the sentence.
- 25. Write the sentence on your “lined paper” on the board.
- 26. Say: “Copy the sentence on the second line of your paper.”
- 27. Say: “Let’s make a sentence from the third column of the branch organizer, using the word ‘Likes.’” (Example sentence: The horse likes hay.) Point to the words on the branch chart on the board as you slowly say them, forming the sentence.
- 28. Write the sentence on your “lined paper” on the board.
- 29. Say: “Copy the sentence on the third line of your paper.”
- 30. Say: “Now we will read our sentences aloud.” Group students in pairs to read to each other, or let each child read aloud to you, an aide, or the whole class.
- 31. Praise students and pass out reinforcers.
- 32. Say: “Now we will draw a picture to go with our sentences.” Lead students to read the sentences. Then encourage them to remember and draw two or three details at once and incorporate them all into one horse picture.

Students might be tempted to draw the same picture as in the first sentence-building exercise. Keep students connected to the meaning of the words.

- 33. Collect papers and pencils, praise students, and pass out reinforcers.
